

Investigating stakeholder perspectives on the role of the semi-wild pony

The main outcomes of this project will be to raise stakeholder awareness of upland biodiversity and the role ponies play in its conservation. Equally to influence Welsh Government, and their Sustainable Farming and Our Landscape schemes, through a final report and discussion where possible, such that they produce policies that are supportive of the continued presence of the semi-wild pony and, moreover, more extensive grazing regimes such that biodiversity degradation is not only halted, but improved.

Help us by completing this questionnaire!

We are looking for anyone who uses these landscapes in Wales to undertake a survey, giving their opinions of the role of the pony in maintaining biodiversity, soil health and, because they eat the bracken, access to walks for tourists and other recreational users. We would be very grateful for your opinion.
